

WE'RE CHANGING LIVES WITH RESEARCH.

CAN YOU HELP US?

Priority COVID-19 research

Research is a vital strand of the government's strategy to stop COVID-19. As COVID-19 is a new disease we need to find out as much as we can about it, as quickly as possible.

We can only answer questions about COVID-19 with research.

Not all research into COVID-19 is research into treatment, a diagnosis or a vaccine. Some research is studying the progress of COVID-19 so we can understand it better or look at the effects of social distancing on the spread of coronavirus or on people's well-being.

All types of research are important in helping us to understand and beat COVID-19. Find out how you can take part now by going to:
